

Haunted Historic Homes Operating Friday, Saturday

Written by Hope Trent

Friday, October 28, 2016 12:41 PM

"Hell's Belles and the Colonial Damned" will run from 7 to 11 p.m. Friday and 6 to 11 p.m. Saturday.

By Ben Steelman StarNews Staff

WILMINGTON -- The Bellamy Mansion Museum at 503 Market St. and the Burgwin-Wright House at 224 Market St. are staging a "Haunted House" event Friday and Saturday.

"Hell's Belles and the Colonial Damned" will run from 7 to 11 p.m. Friday and 6 to 11 p.m. Saturday. Admission is $25 for both houses. Tickets can be purchased at the door at either house, and patrons may visit either house in order.

The program is intended for adults and young people aged 13 and older. Members of the Pineapple-Shaped Lamps comedy troupe will be involved in the fun. Beer from local brewers and food from local food trucks will be available for purchase. For more information, call 910-251-3700.

Note: This story was published in the Star News.

View the Story
More News...