The Association for Women Faculty and Professionals (AWFP) presented Lanier Brown May with the 2017 Mary Turner Award for her dedication to the lives of women at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She is the senior regional development officer and founder of Carolina Women's Leadership Council. May started the Carolina Women's Leadership Council in order to help engage women transitioning into university life. During a fundraising campaign, the council received donations from over 24,000 women- almost $500 million in total. It placed more than 100 women on University boards. To read more click here
