The Carolina Playmakers, who present three plays at the Academy of Music tonight under the auspices of the Colonial Dames, will be greeted by one of the largest audiences of the season.

Wilmingtonians are showing much interest in the Carolina Playmakers, and it is certain that the plays will more than please, as this is an institution of the University of North Carolina and has established itself nationally under the able direction of Dr. Frederick H. Koch.

The press of the country, including periodicals of high standing, have given the most favorable criticism of the Playmakers.

The following will act as patronesses for the production here this evening: Mrs. M. Bluethenthal, Mrs. Payson Willard, Mrs. Henry Bear, Mrs. Haywood Clark, Mrs. F. J. Duls, Mrs. John DeWitt, Mrs. J. G. Murphy, Mrs. James Cowan, Mrs. W. D. MacMillan, Jr., Mrs. A. M. Waddell, Mrs. Wm. Latimer, Mrs. W. R. Thorpe, Mrs. Walter Williamson, Mrs. W. N. Harriss and Miss Jennie Murchison.
